

The King who Banned the Dark

English Knowledge Organiser

ESSENTIAL VOCABULARY
Tone	pitch, quality, and strength of talk.
Volume	How quiet or loud something is.
Expression	A look on someone's face or the tone of voice that tells you how they are feeling.
Speech	A spoken piece of text to persuade people to do something/agree with you.
Subordinating conjunction	ISAWAWABUB (If, since, when, although, while, after, before, until and because. A subordinate conjunction is used to introduce a subordinate clause.
Subordinate clause	A subordinate clause is a group of words in a sentence that contains a subject and a verb but cannot function as a complete sentence on its own.
Rhetorical question	A device used to hook the reader/listener. It's a question that doesn't require or expect an answer. E.g. Did you know that the dark has never been banned before? Want to hear more? Listen up!
Emotive language	Language used to make the reader/listener empathise with what you are saying. E.g. The defenceless wolf was violently attacked by the gruesome bear. The use of language makes people sympathise with the wolf.
Persuasive language	Language used to try convince someone to do something/agree with something. E.g. 'How could anyone possibly...?' Or 'It's clear for all to see...'
Emphasis	Making something stand out.

Final written outcome

To write a speech.

Non-Negotiables for this piece of work

- Appropriate adverbs and verbs
- Prepositions
- Persuasive language
- Emotive language
- Conjunctions
- Rhetorical conjunctions

What makes a great speech?

Passion and enthusiasm
 Clear voice and appropriate volume
 Emphasis on important words
 Appropriate eye contact and hand gestures
 Emotive language

Example of a persuasive speech

Have you ever wondered what the world would be like with no light? Ever considered the impact it would have on you and everything around you? Well, I'm here to tell you, it would be a BIG mistake to ban the dark. If we had no light, then plants would not grow and if we have no plants, we won't be able to grow as much food. We can't afford to lose any food supplies! Surely you can see this is true? We must not let the light go!

Greta Thunberg

Greta Thunberg has made headlines in recent times. She is a Swedish activist who is fighting for climate justice. She challenges world leaders to take charge of climate change and make a difference now!

Martin Luther King

Martin Luther King is one of the most famous and influential speech makers. He is very famous for his 'I have a dream speech' and his speech is still used as an example today. It is still quoted, used in films and incredibly memorable.

